ABOUT THE EVENT

BC Talks' So You Think You Can Speak: An Impromptu Showdown is the 4th annual college-wide speech contest. Impromptu speaking, also known as "thinking on your feet" or "speaking off-the-cuff," is the delivery of a speech without much or any time to prepare. To do well, a contestant must discuss the topic appropriately, develop an organized speech, as well as deliver the speech with confidence and within a specific time limit.

ELIGIBILITY

- Currently enrolled Broward College student (full or part-time) for Spring 2021
- Submit a completed contest entry form to bctalks@broward.edu by Friday, March 19, 2021 by 12:00 p.m. (noon)
- Committed to being physically present on Zoom to compete during the scheduled competition on March 25, 2021

SPEECH GUIDELINES

Contestants will be challenged on 3 different levels as contestants are eliminated at each level by the votes of the viewers. Therefore, contestants will compete for votes from the audience.

Level 1: A Picture Is Worth A Thousand Words

Each contestant will be shown a different picture. From the picture, each contestant must draw a moral from the picture and present an impromptu speech about the moral of the image.

Level 2: It's Storytime

Each contestant will receive a different story prompt. Based on the story prompt, each contestant must continue the story from where the prompt left off and complete the story.

Level 3: Speak Your Mind on Social Injustice

Each contestant will receive a different social justice topic from a bag of topics randomly selected by the host. Each contestant will provide a perspective on the topic, indicating a stance (for, against, or neutral), knowledge, and experience related to the topic.

- Mode: Impromptu
- Speaking Time: 1 to 3 minutes
